

The Bullsheet, a forum for news, humor, and community dialogue, is funded by DCGA and is printed each day that classes are in session. Submissions must be sent before 6:30pm for next day submission via e-mail to:bullsheet@denison.edu. Submissions herein solely reflect the opinions of the authors.

Edited last night by: Zach Correia
Delivered this morning by: Charlie
vol. LXIV/ no. 8 / January 30, 2020

THE WHEEL

If you have been perusing MyDenison you may have recently come across an app called My Wheel. The Wheel is an interactive series of colorful concentric circles that “represents the outcomes of a Denison education.” There are 13 “Core Student Learning Outcomes” that are broken-down from four larger “Core Student Learning Goals.” These Goals are the three parts of the first sentence of the mission statement and then all the General Education Competency requirements essentially put into one. Students then can “map each of their courses and Denison experiences” that can range from “organizations, leadership roles, campus jobs, internships, etc.” to each of the outcomes.

The Wheel is intended as a way to ~~help with accreditation~~ for students to reflect on their Denison experience. Accompanying The Wheel are two questions asking how one might develop and seek out ways to have growth in these Learning Outcomes.

I want to commend Denison for using The Wheel. I am blown away that Denison was successful in synthesizing an entire liberal arts education into just 13 Core Learning Outcomes. More so, I applaud Denison for using a heavily structured and controlled mode of reflection that can be accessed by administrators. Nothing captures the essence of the free-thinking aspect of the liberal arts like pre-defined outcomes!

As almost everything now that happens at Denison has to be learning focused I present below 13 Core Student Learning Outcomes that come from being a staff member on The Bullsheet. Definitions of each of the Outcomes can be found on My Wheel which I suggest you all go to -- The Wheel is fun to click on and watch each color get bigger and smaller!

Analytical Thinking

The Bullsheet has always had a part when things start breaking down on campus

Critical Thinking

When writing a piece I am always asking myself “am I pissing off the right people?”

Creative Thinking

lol our name is a pun about shit

Civic Life:

Everything published by the Bullsheet has only improved the Denison Community 100% of the time.

Global Perspectives

Bullsheeters have experienced many types of foreign alcohols and substances

Differences Among Person

A double-sided legal size piece of paper is the best way to have debates between two or more people about petty issues

Power & Justice

We’ve been pretty good at sticking it to the man

Ethical Reasoning

n/a

Agency

We let anyone make themselves look like an ass

Identify Awareness

We are Denison’s only student newspaper

Quantitative Reasoning

The worth of a piece is determined by how many people it pisses off

Oral Communication

;))

Written Communication

The Bullsheet has a rigorous set of guidelines for submissions to ensure that submitters have thought out thier arguments, include multiple perspectives and pieces of evidence, if it will better the campus and if it has perfect spieling and gramer.

- Zach Correia, Head Writer

HOT TAKES: FOOD PAIRINGS

We haven't had a Bullsheet controversy in a good while, so allow me to make some waves:

1) Pineapple on pizza is objectively delicious. The acidic and tangy nature of the fruit makes it complement otherwise unremarkable pizza toppings (e.g. Canadian bacon/ham - not bad on its own but lacking pizzazz; green peppers - refreshing but a bit bland if not paired with a bolder topping). While we're at it, unless a pizza's crust is burnt so badly it's only a few atoms away from becoming literal charcoal, crust is actually pretty good.

2) Homemade (or just well-made) mayonnaise is freaking amazing on hot, lightly salted fries. Mayo gets a lot of hate, and it's understandable, as I'm not wild about it on sandwiches, and it's often overused with wild abandon. However: when lightly seasoned (per Zach's preceding article, chipotle mayo is a classic) or just... not out of a jar that's been unrefrigerated on a supermarket shelf for the past two months, it adds to the flavor profile of the fries without overpowering them, unlike the typical ketchup or other similar sauces. It just works.

3) Strawberry jam is the best condiment for fried chicken, and this is coming from someone who loves BBQ wings. I first tried this at a place that served it on their chicken and waffles, and frankly, it was a magical experience to eat even without the added sweetness of waffle or syrup. It's not conventional, but it's really, really good.

I await your hate mail. My only request is that you don't knock these food pairings until you've tried them.

Elizabeth Arterberry, Junior Writer
& Culinary War Criminal

MISSION34 IS HOLDING A COOL EVENT AND I THINK YOU

Mission 34 and Active Minds Present

LET'S BUST THE STIGMA

Understand Mental Health Conditions and How You Can Help Save a Life

February 1, 2020

1 - 3 pm

Herrick Auditorium

A DISCUSSION WITH PENNY SITLER
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF MENTAL HEALTH AMERICA, LICKING COUNTY

Staff "Jams" Box

Jax "Grape" Preyer, Former Managing Editor
Isabella "Orange Marmalade" Puccini, Senior Editor
Sophia "Tomato Jam" Menconi, Senior Editor
James "Kelp" Whitney, Sophomore Editor
Zach "Chipotle Jam" Correia, Head Writer
Jay "Strawberry" Huff, Senior Writer
Charlie "Peach Jam" Schweiger, Junior Write
Elizabeth "Black Berry Jam" Arterberry, Junior Writer
Katie "Italian Jam" Kerrigan, Foreign Correspondent
Jack "Jam Session" May, Sophomore Writer

