

bullsheet@denison.edu | denisonbullsheet.com | @DUBullsheet

The Bullsheet, a forum for news, humor, and community dialogue, is funded by DCGA and is printed each day that classes are in session. Submissions must be sent before out editors shotgun a brewski or two for next day submission via e-mail to: bullsheet@denison.edu. Submissions herein solely reflect the opinions of the authors.

Edited last night by: Katie Delivered this morning by: Ellie? I think?
vol. LXIII/ no. 25/ September 25th, 2020

BULLSHEET UPDATES

So the staff talked and we are considering an identity change: welcome to the Sheep Sheet. We are just really into sheep right now. They are cute, cuddly, and fun! I know that the "Bullsheel" is a play on words of "Bullshit." Which is cute and punny. But bulls are intense and I just don't know if we represent that level of ferocity and fierceness. Our energy aligns better with sheep. Ya feel? But obviously, the Bullsheet has a long history before us and will have a history after us, but I still think change can be good. Think of it as an opportunity to mix things up. Some people might be upset by this but just remember that this is a good thing. You will adapt, learn, and grow. Sheep are fun and they look cool. Just idk man... I just love sheep. There is so much potential with having a sheep as our mascot/icon. Honestly, I'm not sure anyone will agree with me but there is something to be said about rebranding. 2020 feels like the year to rebrand. You can now refer to us as the Sheep Sheet™

Other updates:

- Charlie is MAD with power. The staff is forming a coup. More details to come.
- Someone on the staff has had toes in their mouth. That's all I'm going to say.....
- For a creative bunch of writers, we suck at coming up with creative things for "Never Have I Ever!" It was a painful game honestly
- The Denisonian staff can't chug even if their lives depend on it. It was embarrassing for us Bullsheeters to watch the Denisonian staff drink.
- The Bullsheet staff can drink them to the ground.
- STAND DOWN.
- Noone actually knows where Schaff is
- The staff has some issues with being on aux. actually let me revise that statement: Jack has some issues with being on aux.
- King's Cup is way better than Uno. Can confirm.
- The Sheep Sheet office is finally clean. GOD BLESS.

Community Update

-Katie Kerrigan, Head Writer

THE “FULL HOUSE” HOUSE MAKES NO SENSE

Let’s get this straight, I love Full House. I really do. I watched it everyday after school during childhood. I have watched it so many times. While home bound this spring I decided to watch the series yet again and I noticed SO MANY discrepancies in their presumed home. I will share with you the confusing things about the “Full House” house and why the set makes absolutely no sense.

Let’s talk about the random room in the hallway between the kitchen and the living room (where the man walks out from in S7 EP 24 at 6:54). Watch that episode and you will be so confused too. Like I know the laundry room/closet is in between the kitchen and living room but what is this random hallway between the rooms? It is never mentioned or interacted with (until this one episode where the man walks out of it). In the girls’ room, they have a bay window and then in the living room there is a bay window but the girl’s room is not above the living room and thus it doesn’t make sense that there are bay windows in both rooms. It makes sense for the living room because it is on the front of the house. The outside of the house clearly shows two bay windows so there has to be one on the second floor, but it can’t be the girls’ room because there is nothing above the living room since the stairs have a banister that over looks the first floor. Also... the super super spacious attic. Where did that come from? In the views of the outside of the house, it is clear that it has a flat roof, so how did this attic with a valuted celining magically appear?

The stairs make no sense because whenever they go upstairs from the front, there is clearly a hallway at the top of the staircase where the banister is that looks over the living room but then whenever they show the upstairs hallway, the stairs clearly turn and there is a landing and NO banister that looks over the living room. It is not an open staircase like the living room stairs. But yeah this upstairs vantage point could be showing the backstairs idk. if not, where do the back stairs come up to in the second floor? That house is just so f**king big. Like so big. But not really from the outside. A FOUR-FLOOR home with that many bedrooms would be so expensive in $an Fran....way more than a sports newscaster makes (Danny’s first career). It all just doesn’t add up. Don’t even get me started about the driveway/backyard. There are a few episodes that mention/show the driveway as a part of the backyard set but that really makes no sense. The backyard in the show is large, bright, and expansive, but like the house is in the middle of the city and right in between several other homes. It just makes NO sense.

Don’t get me wrong, I love the show and I love the house. I had dreams about living there. But now, as I look back as an adult, there is just so much that doesn’t add up in that home. That is a victorian with the funkiest floor plan I have ever seen.

-Katie Kerrigan, Head Writer

Staff “Favorite Foods” Box

Charlie “Lettuce” Schweiger
James “Burgers” Whitney, Sophomore Editor
Jack “Trail mix” May, Junior Editor
Betsy “Her sister’s toes” Wagner, Sophomore Editor
Katie “Pasta” Kerrigan, Head Writer
JOSH “Cheetos” P03, Senior Writer
Elizabeth “Potatoes” Arterberry, Senior Writer
Maggie “Nuts” Bell, Junior Writer
Blythe “The Denisonian” Dahlem, Sophomore Writer
Ellie “Cheese” Schrader, Sophomore Writer
William “Apples” Kelsey, Sophomore Writer
Emma “Shrimp on the Barbie” Rutherford, Sophomore Writer

Betsy has a thing for feet.....