NOVEMBER MADNESS

March was hard for many of us for a myriad of reasons, but I think that we can all agree that the cancelling of March Madness part-way through was some of the worst of it. Well obviously getting sent home sucked too, I was even sent home from abroad, but still the lack of March Madness fulfillment left many of us with basketball sized holes in our hearts. I am here to mend this pain by providing you with a November Madness - the brackets are just as fun but minus the basketball. Yes, you heard me right... no basketball. But you may ask, "Katie, how can we have a tournament bracket without the balls?!?!?" Well kids, this is a different type of bracket madness. I present to you "November Madness: The Tournament of Denison Housing." This bracket is my person rankings of all 32 Denison housing locations. You may disagree with me and that's okay, but just know that Silverstein will always win. I divided it up by regions, obviously. On the left side, we see East and West Quad (west quad excluding freshmen housing). On the right side, we see North Quad, South Quad, Freshmen Housing, and the other dorms not on a specific quad. I hope this November Housing Madness bracket can give you just a little taste of what you missed during March Madness. If you have any suggestions for or issues with my bracket, please reach out to housing@denison.edu

SPOOOOOKY

Uh-oh. It is Friday the 13th. If you are superstitious, or even just a little-stitious, then this day may have you feeling a bit nervy. I just admit that I am superstitious so I am a little spooked about tomorrow. Also, not to alarm anyone but the last Friday the 13th in 2020 was in March, when sh*t really hit the fan. Things weren't looking great before that but that was the date was everyone was sent home around the country and we realized how serious this beer-named-virus really was. So with that happy thought in mind, I wish everyone a lovely Friday, November 13th.

Let's talk about some spooky and superstitious things that give me the heebee-jeebes
