HIGHS, LOWS, BUFFALOS

I am sure that we all have heard of the classic game (is it a game? idk) of your “rose and thorn” of the day, in which you tell someone the best and worst part of your day, week, month, etc. When discussing your day with your family and friends and they ask for your “rose” and “thorn” of the day, tell them to fk off and that you only play High, Low, Buffalo. This is a million times better than “rose and thorn” because it rhymes, it is cuter, and who doesn’t love buffalos. You may ask “what is a buffalo?” well my friend, a buffalo is something weird that happened that day... because like if you say you saw a buffalo it would be out of the ordinary and fun. I was doing some reflection on this semester and it got me thinking about what were the best and worst parts of the year. So for this semester’s last sheet it seems only fitting that we discuss the best, worst, and weirdest parts of this fall semester.

HIGHS

- We were able to come back to campus
- Denison’s communication
- Weinberg’s emails (usually a high)
- Courses were accommodating to remote students
- SILVERSTEIN
- I genuinely felt safe here
- Figuring out new ways to hang with friends
- Most people are great with wearing masks when they should be
- campo and admin have been pretty strict when it comes to those breaking covid rules. keeps us #safe
- Consistently decent weather
- The Farmer’s Market (a consistent high)
- The new drive-thru Starbucks in Heath. LIFE SAVER.
- being a senior in an apartment... no plexi-glass divided meals in huff
- LOTS of day drinking (water only!) outside

LOWS

- We are living in a pandemic
- Couldn’t do that much/go anywhere (especially for the first 7 weeks)
- The anticipation before opening Weinberg’s emails
- Denison could have tested every student more frequently
- For the kids that got sent home.... I bet that was a low
- No sports. well there was some sports but definitely wayyyy different than usual
- Privileges revoked when covid numbers spiked
- My hands have never been drier...thanks hand sanitizer
- The mailroom pick up times by slayer box (during the first few weeks)
- Nobody in Newark or Heath wearing masks
- When it rained on a Saturday
- The unknowns of it all
- Usually not leaving your rooms until dinner time

BUFFALOS

- the IM fields have never been more relevant
- Ebaugh pond as a social space
- Silverstein parking lot as a social space
- many many many many any walks with friends (never ever have I gone on more walks than in 2020)
- zoom university
- creative solutions to making our own fun
- Louis the Child as zoom D-day performer.....
- The Slayer Tent
- Classes in tents & Swasey
- the Silverstein marketplace actually having good alcohol
- Not returning after Thanksgiving
- Remote finals
- the dividers in the dining halls
- Realizing how much 20 y/o boys love golf

BEST BABY OF 2020

So like most everyone with an iPhone, I have the news app. I subscribe to many different news sources, one of which is People... because who doesn't love some tabloids. Well today I got a notification from People magazine via my news app that read: "Cutest Baby of 2020 Announced" and I just had to discuss it. I know that People Magazine is infamous for declaring the hottest people of the year (except I still don't know how Blake Shelton won) but I think that ranking celebrity babies is where we need to draw the line. Like the kid was cute but I found it odd. How do you choose one famous baby over another. Well some kids are cuter than others, we can't deny that fact. But how can a magazine decide which celebrities have the cutest kids of the entire year. Then they wrote a lengthy article about the 6-month old... What has he done in 6 months that is news worthy? Just seemed so odd to me idk. Well anyone, here is the kid. He is super cute I will give him that. The cutest baby of all of 2020? Idk bout that one. (side note: I do like babies. This article makes me seem like I have a weird dislike for babies. I don't... they seem nice enough.

Finale. Thank you for another great semester of bullshit, lovely readers. We know this fall was tough, stressful, difficult, and confusing, but we hope that our daily paper was a constant for you and made you crack a smile on the occasion. Thank you for your questions, I appreciate your curiosity, keep being curious, keep asking questions, that's so important. With love and hugs, see you in the spring. Stay Golden Ponyboy <3
