

bullsheet@denison.edu | denisonbullsheet.com | @DUBullsheet

The Bullsheet, a forum for news, humor, and community dialogue, is funded by DCGA, secretly managed by James, and is printed each day that classes are in session. Submissions must be sent before our editors shamble into the office for next day submission via e-mail to: bullsheet@denison.edu. Submissions herein solely reflect the opinions of the authors.

Edited last night by: Charlie
Delivered this morning by: Maggie maybe?
vol. LXVII/ no. 52/November 3rd, 2020

DEFINITIVE MCDONALD'S BREAKFAST SANDWICH RANKING

So I have seen some feedback (which is the first feedback that I have literally ever gotten in the history of me being on staff, other than some entanglements that I have been involved in with administration). I just want to say that 1) how dare you imply that I'm not funny because I am literally the funniest person I know and 2) if you think you can do my job better than me, you're probably correct, but also you should inquire about applying to be on staff if you want some REAL humor to be coursing through the veins of the Denison student body!!! (Feedback was also directed toward humor of the guys versus girls on staff- a silly binary of which I refuse to take part.) I'm not sure when the application and interview process will be, but feel free to reach out and we may or may not give you some information on that. With that being said, let's talk about the most identifiable brand in the United States: McDonald's. Yes it is a corporation, but at the end of the day, it's cheap food and if you don't like fast food or think it's gross then you're either classist or fatphobic, so either way your opinion doesn't matter. With that brouhaha out of the way, I will be ranking the breakfast sandwiches from McDonald's, while also making the occasional assumption about the people that like the respective sandwiches, because a McDonald's without all-day breakfast might as well just be a Wendy's.

10) Sausage McGriddle: This is such a boring sandwich and if you like it, then I feel sorry for you. I have nothing else to say about this one because I have never tried it and probably never will.

9) Sausage Biscuit: This is also a pretty boring sandwich. You were probably a picky eater as a kid, and you probably still are, but you mask it by occasionally eating baby carrots with your lunch. You're better off buying Pillsbury biscuit dough, frozen sausage patties, and butter and making this one at home.

8) Sausage McMuffin: Maybe it's just because I hate sausage, but this one is also not good. Like literally why would you order this when there are so many better options. If you're gonna support a corporation, at least make it worthwhile (which this sandwich is not!).

Continued on back...

- 7) Sausage Biscuit with Egg: This is another boring sausage breakfast sandwich, but it has an egg so yay I guess. My favorite thing about the breakfast sandwiches is the American cheese, which this sandwich lacks. I just want that one-molecule-away-from-plastic cheese that fast food breakfast sandwiches are supposed to have!!!
- 6) Sausage McMuffin with Egg: This sandwich is what I picture when someone says “breakfast sandwich,” because it has the classic components of fake meat, fake cheese, processed egg, and an english muffin. This would probably hit the spot, but there are simply better options- hence the below-average ranking.
- 5) Sausage, Egg, and Cheese McGriddle: I feel like this sandwich is solid, but also like... just ok. The McGriddle sandwiches were introduced in 2003 as a revamped breakfast option, but if you were a fan in the first place, you don’t need a revamp!! Don’t fall for this marketing ploy.
- 4) Bacon, Egg, and Cheese McGriddle: Same thing as #7, but this one is ranked higher because bacon > sausage!!!
- 3) Bacon, Egg, and Cheese Bagel: This is a solid sandwich, but if I’m gonna go crazy for a breakfast sandwich, I would simply order from SteamRollers, because at least I wouldn’t have to drive anywhere. Good, but not the best!! But also definitely not the worst idk.
- 2) Egg McMuffin: This is my go-to order whenever I’m at the airport (I miss those). I only order this one without canadian bacon, but it is so simple and delightful. It’s incredibly light, and it doesn’t make me feel like shit. The crisp texture of the muffin with the egg and cheese combo is something that I couldn’t reproduce at home if I tried. I can’t explain how this is so simple, yet so satisfying. You know what they say: Simplicity reveals the pure beauty of life or something!!!
- 1) Bacon, Egg, and Cheese Biscuit: Yes. I believe that everyone is entitled to their own opinion, but if you don’t think that this is the best McDonald’s breakfast sandwich, then your opinion is bad and objectively wrong. This is the holy grail of breakfast options in general, and I can’t count the number of times that this sandwich has saved my life. I will simply never say no to someone offering me this sandwich.

-Charlie Schweiger, Managing-Editor

GO TO THIS!! WILLIAM KELSEY MY 4TH FAVORITE STAFF MEMBER WANTS YOU TO AND SO DO I once more for emphasis!!!

TEST	RESULT
COVID-19	Negative
Chlamydia	Positive
Hepatitis A	Positive
Hepatitis B	Positive
Hepatitis C	Positive
Gonorrhea	Positive
Syphilis	Positive

Staff “vines” Box

- Charlie “when u hear that heart snap” Schweiger, Managing Editor
- James “country boy...iluuuu” Whitney, Junior Editor
- Jack “guys being dudes” May, Junior Editor
- Betsy “9+10?” Wagner, Sophomore Editor
- Katie “What the f*ck is up, Kyle” Kerrigan, Head Writer
- Elizabeth “in my mums car” Arterberry, Senior Writer
- Big Boy Jo$h “Youre not my dad” P03, Senior Writer
- Maggie “look at all those chickens” Bell, Junior Writer
- Blythe “can i please get a waffle” Dahlem, Sophomore Writer
- Ellie “i smell like beef” Schrader, Sophomore Writer
- William “your moms a hoe” Kelsey, Sophomore Writer
- Emma “is that allowed” Rutherford, Sophomore Writer

