2021!

Congrats on “SuRvIViNg 2020” or whatever the hell you want to call the past 12 months. It was a solid run, but it’s reassuring that people can no longer blame all their problems on the current year. It’s like the 2011 “Thanks Obama” meme all over again. If there ends up being “2021 sucks” memes... come on guys, you’re more creative than that.

The truth that is hopefully becoming clear to everyone now is that our problems with 2020 aren’t magically coming to an end because we made it past New Years, or because we don’t have a transparently corrupt president. Shit went bad because shits been bad, for a while. Don’t stop fighting for change, boys and girls.

Anyways, I don’t feel qualified enough to predict any radical changes we’ll be witnessing this year, so I won’t bother to do that. I will however happily discuss the things I’d love to see in 2021.

1.) More NERF Guns in the Bullsheet Office

This one is near and dear to my heart. Currently in the cold and lonely Bullsheet office we have one NERF gun, a minted N-Strike Elite Mega Magnus Blaster. It’s a quality piece of machinery, highly rated by amateur and professionals alike. However, a NERF gun is only as good as the man (or woman) whomst shall weild it, and whomst whost shoots another man unarmed must have his code of ethics put in question. With one Magnus in the office, there’s a lot of shooting unarmed men. However, with two NERF products, every editor has a fair fighting chance. We will be accepting donations.

2.) Live Music?

I would literally remove a testicle, hell, my favorite testicle, to see any length of any variety and/or subcategory of live music being performed. I would watch an 80 year old man tune a banjo for five hours. I would listen to two seagulls having sex if there was some interesting dissonance. I would comfortably pay money to hear wind chimes. I would see Phish perform. Hell, I would see the Hilltoppers perform.

3.) The Long Awaited Return of the Denison Ski Club

I haven’t been snowboarding in three years. Come on guys, wya?

4.) Godzilla vs Kong

If you don’t think this movie looks cool you’re either a liar, or you actually watched the last Godzilla movie (oof). Look, I don’t give a shit who wins (Godzilla), but King Kong has a battle ax. King Kong. Battle ax.

5.) MF Doom Risen From His Holy Grave

It’s a stretch, but man, does this loss tug at the heartstrings. Rest forever in peace, chrome dome.

A MESSAGE FROM A BULLSHEET LEGEND

Hi Bullsheet staff,

I'm writing this as a vague and general "go get 'em, tigers," in the midst of what I can only imagine to be a hugely frustrating and challenging time to be a college student. So, go get 'em, tigers.

I feel extremely fortunate to have worked as an editor for the Bullsheet during my time at Denison. On one hand, there's that sense that you're raising up the voices of the student body and providing a useful forum for members of the campus community to share ideas and thoughts. On the other hand, usually the stakes are overall pretty low and you get to just kind of fuck around on a computer and then have the university print out whatever sleep-deprived shit you came up with at the last minute. If you ask me, that's a damn sweet deal.

Anyways, I wish I made enough money that I could offer you giants of publishing something more tangibly useful like a wad of cash, or maybe some molly or ketamine or something. But I hope that at the very least a few words of encouragement might help you keep truckin down the road during these weird ass times.

I truly mean it when I say that reading the 'sheet connects me to a place and memories that I hold very closely in my heart, and for that, I thank you all. Keep it up and please continue to be a more entertaining media source than the Denisonian.

Best,
Teddy Jones, '16
