CLASS OF 2020 GRADUATION DELAYED

The Class of 2020 in-person graduation has been delayed to June of 2022. Not only does this mean that the Class of 2021 and 2022 will have graduation ceremonies before us but also by then most members of the Class of 2020 will have jobs or be near completing grand school. The normal advice after you “graduate” is to try to separate yourself from college for time before reengaging. But since at least once every week I think back to last March and since I know the Bullsheet will take almost any content, meh, screw that advice. Anyways, here’s a totally well thought out listicle of what will happen with new for the Class of 2020’s graduation:

1. DCGA To Cut Funding For Class of 2020 Senior Week Money After Not Showing Growth For Two Years
2. 6th Year Senior Really Lucked Out
3. Law Student Offering A Great Price For Dime Bags
4. Campus Safety To Break Up Any Party With Natty Light Due To It Just Being Sad By This Point
5. Announcement Emails Still Not Read
6. Presidential Medal Winners Can Finally Take Off Their Medals
7. Med Student You Connected With At Knowlton Center Networking Event Later Seen Shotgunning Outside Myers
8. Granville Bars Await Extra Summer Business, GPD Extra Fines
9. Public Health Professionals and Businesses Analysts To Really Ready Go At Each Other
10. Department Reunions To Enforce Mandatory Attendance
11. “Oh Fuck” Says Out Of Breath Alumni Who Thought It Would Be Fun To Walk Up The Hill

EAT THE SHEET

In order to increase public engagement in the Bullsheet the office of the Editor has given Bullsheet R&D the go-ahead to start the production of certain limited edition edible Bullsheets. It will now come in the following fun and fancy flavors:

Meat

- I mean what else can I say, It tastes like meat. Specifically, the piece of salami that has been sitting in the Bullsheet fridge (class of '03).
- Spicy, Meaty, and is that just a touch of painful indigestion?
- You are a nasty little creature who has been banished to the caverns beneath Swasey, you live off of raw bats and regret that you chose this flavor. You really wish you had heated the Bullsheet up to an internal temperature of 145 degrees Fahrenheit before you ate it.

Wheat

(Vegan friendly!!)

- Tastes like Costco seven-grain whole wheat bread (or fresh baked bread depending upon how much of a corporate sellout you are (we know))
- You are running through a field of grain, arms outstretched while your white dress flows behind you. A gust of wind blows your sunhat off your head and sends it spiraling towards a gorgeous stranger picking flowers down by the creek.

Beet

- Vegan and gluten intolerance friendly!!
- You are but a lowly peasant, the Tsar has taken all of your food and left you with nothing but some pickled beets and horse-radish (not a bad meal tbh). You make do, as you have always done. You use the beet juice to die your bedsheets red. A revolution is coming, you can feel it in your bones.

Feet

(Contains cheese)

- You are a Bullsheet editor/writer. It has been a long day, the sun went down seven hours ago and you still haven't finished the sheet. There is nothing in the fridge but expired red bull and a piece of salami. Slayer is too far away. Out in the hallway you hear movement... It's the Denison 2am barefoot running club... you feel emotions you never thought existed.
