RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Now that the Bullsheet newbies have been announced it is important that we make sure that they are aware of all the rights and responsibilities they gain (and lose) as a member of the staff:

THEY NO LONGER GET IN TROUBLE FOR STEALING HORSES:

The Denison Equestrian team better watch out. We are coming, and the world will never be the same. The Denisonian office will be converted into stables for our new horses.

THEY ARE NO LONGER FAST PAST ELIGIBLE:

The Bullsheet is a group of law-abiding citizens. We would never even imagine committing a crime like spending exorbitant sums of money in order to sit in a slightly smaller line.

THEY CAN BOARD PLANES IN THE PRIORITY BOARDING QUEUE:

All Bullsheet members have served in the Air Force (James was dishonorably discharged). Which means that they can board the airplane first. How fun! We get to sit on the plane for an extra thirty minutes while we wait for everyone to board!! That's the perfect time to not write articles.

THEY MUST LEARN HOW TO DOUGIE:

It is still unknown who will teach us how to dougie, but they are going to learn somehow.

THEY GET A FREE DOSE OF MODERNA:

The Bullsheet has been stockpiling vaccines since 1993. Our latest batch of Moderna vaccines (which we keep in the office fridge—right next to the open red bull and slice of sentient bologna) is ready to roll! Each current member of staff has already pumped themselves with enough vaccine to kill a horse, so we got to share the wealth somehow.

THEY GET FREE GLUE:

We recently came into the possession of the body of a horse. Apparently horses do not need vaccines (we would like to apologize to the Denison Equestrian team, the Denisonian Staff, and George the local Farrier). Elmer on the other hand is quite happy with us.
