NOTHING IS HAPPENING.

In Monday's issue of the Bullsheet, No. 47, junior editor William Kelsey published an article entitled "Something is Happening!!!" Well, I am here to herald the news that contrary to this headline, nothing is actually happening. Everything is exactly as it always has been and always will be. Time is a flat oval with occasional ripples. So instead of speaking on all of the things that did happen today, lets look at everything that could have happened but didn't--at least not in this reality.

ALTERNATE 11/09/2021 TIMELINE

8:00am: The Bullsheet was never delivered because it was never written, as it never existed. All time lines remain completely unaffected by this.

9:24am: A kettle of turkey vultures flew over A-Quad in perfect irrational cube formation. How did they even do that? Doesn't it deliberately go against all laws of nature and geometry?

10:01am: A gateway to cosmic horrors opened at the Labyrinth around 6am. Four students are lost before the scene can be secured and investigated.

11:11am: Cookie Sunkle, wherever she is, makes a wish to return to Denison. All of campus is suddenly sent back to Fall of 2019, pre-COVID. The world is given a second chance.

12:30pm: Bon Appétit announces new partnership with Wendy's, reveals plans to install a fast food bar where the Doobie currently is.

1:23pm: Matthew Morrison's child is born. The New Messianic Age begins. Junior editor Ellie celebrates own birthday by aging in reverse. Finally 19 again!

2:59pm: God dies. It takes awhile for anyone to notice.

3:01pm: Something awful occurs in Bryant. All art students present are visibly shaken but refuse to discuss what happened.

4:20pm: Phrase "blaze it" legally changed to "appraise it" by the National Organization of Realtors after generous donation to US Military.

NOTHING IS HAPPENING

5:42pm: A new biological weapon is accidentally created in Olin. Science department decides to keep it a secret, just for now...

6:17am: AM and PM get switched for giggles. The decision is quickly reversed because it wasn't very funny in reality.

7:00pm: The bellringers play "Bangarang" by Skrillex. Swasey's song reaches the far corners of Granville. Two noise complaints are made to GPD, but they actually really liked it so nothing came out of that.

8:36pm: A late-shift mail room worker discovers a package dated 1974 hidden under the floor tiles. It emitted a stink so rancid the worker had to be transported to Licking Memorial due to shock. They currently remain in critical condition.

9:05pm: A pack of wild boars is released in Granville to maintain the deer populace.

10:40pm: All professors decide to call in sick Wednesday so they can go on a field trip to the Columbus Zoo.

11:12pm: An insidious group tries to reverse Cookie Sunkle's wish and restore the impacts of COVID, but they all miss 11:11 because someone didn't keep an alarm.

12:00am: Granville resident wasn't informed of return from AM to PM, and is very confused and scared, crying out "Why is it so dark? Is it all finally coming to an end?" into the night.

11:00pm: Daylight Savings II happens. The aforementioned man becomes even more distraught after having calmed down a bit.

12:29am: Mandated sleepy time 1 minute from full effect.

And with that, today's report of events that never happened comes to a close. While these things didn't happen today, there's no guarantees for tomorrow. Happy Tuesday!
