WINNER WINNER...TURKEY DINNER?

Every year Denison hosts the annual Thanksgiving dinner that always happens 1 week too early? If you're not invited to dinner this night, listen you're screwed socially. Although this is the busiest the dining halls will be the whole year, there still is a constant debate on whether if the meal is actually good or not. We here at the Bullsheet would just like to thank all of the Curtis and Huffman staff for really curating the most immersive experience on campus next to the Lambda haunted house. Without you we are nothing <3 Below are some reviews from diners-

"When I first walked into Curtis, I was taken aback by the dimmed lighting and fall ambiance. It wasn't nearly as busy as I was anticipating. When I walked up to get my food, I noticed Turkey legs. I asked the sweet, kind Curtis employee if I may have a leg. Just as the words left my mouth, another employee came chugging around the corner with a fresh array of cooked Turkey. The employee serving me said, "Sure son, you can take this mamma-jamma!" She handed me what had to be the largest Turkey leg I've ever seen in my entire life! It was barbaric in its proportions. I felt like a tiny little boy as I ate it. I shared and enjoyed among friends! 8/10" -Jack May, finally owns pants!

"It was nice" -James Whitney, loves to make a phone call

"Tonight was the first time in a while that I did not choke on the meat. It was not always nice and juicy and the stuffing was very good, top notch gravy too." -William Kelsey, has a beautiful kid

"Huff really delivered tonight with the candles, table cloths, tofu with flavor, and fake turkey on display! Only one thing tragically missing: Connie in the turkey suit :(" -Claire Anderson, *great at s*x...sax duh!*

"Did not get enough food but felt too lazy to get back up and get seconds." -Blythe Dahlem, a wonder in a blue suit

"Physically inedible when cold. Chipped a tooth on the mashed potatoes." -Lena Hanahran, loves plaid

TURKEY TIME

“My favourite part was the butter.” -Emma Rutherford, in Politics of Russia

“2 candles richer!” - Evie Waters, from Oklahoma the setting of Watchmen

“The turkey was alright, the gravy was good, brussel sprouts were mids but that’s just the sprouts, food was decent, pie was good. For a Thanksgiving meal it was decent and for a Denison meal it was good” -Rohan Arora, talks about DMX too much

“Very fire, where is Connie?” -Ian Childs, Pranked!

“Mildly pleasant.” -Nikos Lazanis, has a great voice?

“I wish I got gravy but potatoes were good.” -Francie Lindell, needs to do her laundry

“My stomach is titillated, I wanna cigarette right now 3/10” - William Bugg, Ex-Employee

“The apple crumble was the best thing they had.” -Will Levin, nicknamed... ‘Dolla’?

“Thanksgiving diner at Curtis was one for the ages. Portions gargantuan, my friends and I relished in the hypnotic effects of tryptophan from our collective overindulgence. The Pilgrims could never!” -Zack Gnelson, a mixologist

IN CONCLUSION,

Yes, the people may always disagree on what is good and what is not. But the one thing that really matters is that all of these people came together. Wow! They did it for the friends, the food, and the culture.

That sure is awesome, have a great Thanksgiving!
