MY MOUTH IS DRY, MY SPIRIT IS BROKEN

It's not everyday that I get a CHICKEN sandwich at Slayter, but when I do I absolutely buy multiple beverages. Yes my declining is in shambles from these purchases, but that isn't the main point.

How is it possible for CHICKEN to be so dry?

It feels like I'm smacking on a bundle of dry firewood. Getting into the food situation in general would be a whole new conversation of its own, but to me the CHICKEN just takes the cake.

You may be asking why I continue to get the CHICKEN yet also talk down on it, which would absolutely be a valid question. Although, it is a question I have no answer for. The only advice I would give is be stocked with water, because you WILL need it.

There must be absolutely ZERO effort put into making the CHICKEN anything less than dry like the Sahara. Like realistically it cannot be that difficult to make the CHICKEN even a little moist.

On top of this, don't even think about getting the grilled CHICKEN at Curtis or Huffman. You may end up dehydrated with your health in steep decline. Seriously, I'm not exaggerating how dry your mouth will be if you even take two bites without downing half a cup of water.

On a final note, if someone involved with dining at Denison happens to see this, please soak the CHICKEN in broth.

Just a little bit at least.

Please.
