SLOTH

Denisonians were blessed to get a taste of nature's slowest acrobat last night. This branch dweller put on quite a show in Curtis, with its spectacular lunges and impressive limb extension. We sat down with a group of stoned freshmen to get their opinions on the sloth. "There was a genuine connection" One commented, "The sloth gave me this look like it knew me". His friend added, "Yeah, that guy can hang!"

ARMADILLO

In the feature length film Rango (starring Johnny Depp) one of the very first scenes that the children viewers are exposed to is a disturbing image. An armadillo, moments away from becoming roadkill, chatters with Rango the lizard (voiced by Johnny Depp) while being graphically torn through the middle by a tire track. Luckily, the Zoo to You armadillo (in Curtis Provost Dining Room) was nothing like the unfortunate armadillo from Rango (starring Johnny Depp). Censorship prevails! Huzzah!

PLATYPUS-HEDGEHOG (ECHIDNA)

One student had never even heard of an echidna. They referred to the animal as a platypus-hedgehog hybrid. Captivated by the fact that the echidna is the only mammal to lay eggs, the student plotted to set it free. He began to make a path of garlic breadstick crumbs to draw the echidna away from its captors (E.T. style). Alas, the echidna eats ants. PETA still gives an A for effort.

EAST QUAD SKUNK

You ever walk around campus and smell something a little stinky?? Most commonly smelt in the east or beaver stairwell this is actually the illusive stench of the east quad skunk. Biologists call the smell it produces from its glands "loud". Well lucky for those in attendance they got to meet him in the flesh.
