

edited by JAMES
DELIVERED by MICHAEL

Wednesday, April 27th, 2022
Volume #68, Sheet #133

dega did not fund a new couch to replace our old one and i am mad at them way to silence the press, guys.

SENIORS WITH FREE TIME COMPLAINED ABOUT A LOT OF THINGS AND A FEW OF THEIR COMPLAINTS WEREN'T FULL

SENTENCES BUT I PUT THE MAJORITY OF THEM HERE SO THEY CAN FEEL HEARD

SO TELL ME WHY

Going to the sunnie bathroom and having to scoot all the way in just to shut the door because of bullsheet architectural design. Fuck a corner bathroom in Sunnie A, B, C, and D

A pipe burst in the newest apartment building. Pee got everywhere

What else am I mad about? sips nipple top Gatorade bottle

Students are pooping on BT but my 20 lb dog can't come and watch me play because she is considered a "liability"

Where the fuck is my motherfucking dishwasher

So tell me why recycling and garbage go to the same exact place

Why are there only 4 washers and dryers

I get locked into my own bathroom

Why can I have so many dangerous things but not have a candle?

Tell me why we have a $1 billion endowment and I only get 2 chicken fingers and I have to pay for sauce.

Faculty don't have to pay for parking and they get paid to be here. I have to pay to be here and pay for parking.

Students are pooping on BT but my 20 lb dog can't come and watch me play because she is considered a "liability" Getting written up for a covid violation by an underclassmen RA

What grinds my gears is the open container rule. You want me to spend more money and kill the environment because I can't hold a can in my hand at the age of 22 cause I'm on private property but a peeper can walk around campus freely.

How dare I get a ticket after parking for 2 hours in the 10-minute parking spot.

Stop signs on this campus are not real. Getting written up for a covid violation by an Helen Keller is more real than a stop sign

How the fuck did you know I was there for longer than 10 minutes during the day.

Slow walkers. Anyone with an electric scooter. Completely unnecessary for a campus 1-mile across

It's not quiet hours... it's respectful hours. It was 9:47 PM on a Friday.

Juniors living in the Sunnies while there are still seniors living on east quad

-Four or five seniors I guess

I got double pink eye from eating ass. So tell me why I had to pay $10 to get into my own room to get my crusty eye medicine.

GOODBYE

Hey.

I've been a member of this weird long piece of paper for four years, and I've been editing once a week for around 3, give or take a month or two. The last deadbeat senior gave a farewell so I feel a bit pressured, but I'm not a sentimental dude. I'd like to take this space to thank certain people and talk about what I've enjoyed about being a member of the Bullsheet.

I'd like to thank the copycenter employees for always opening the emails I send them between midnight and 3 AM and always letting me know when the Bullsheet isn't delivered. I've always appreciated the BSAs who clean the office for letting me continue to sleep at 5:45 after a rough all-nighter, and never touching my carefully placed bottles that are strewn around the office. I can't begin to explain how much I appreciate the dozens of people I've called out of the blue to write me subpar content on nights that I don't feel like spewing nonsense onto paper.

It's been really nice having a place to study on A-quad that never has anyone in it. Stealing stuff from the Denisonian office has always been a fun past-time. I like drinking in Knapp one night a week.

Thanks.

-James

i've always wanted to just leave a section blank and go to bed, and today i'm gonna do that.

William
Mick
Maggie
Lily
Lena
James
Jack
Evie
Emma
Ellie
Claire
Blythe
Betsy

THAT'S OUR STAFF

all's well that ends well

