CAMPUS POLLING

As the leading publication on this campus (and as of right now the only one that's published) we find it incredibly important to get a good pulse of our student body and how they feel about important and relevant issues in our fast paced world. So the Bullsheet sent out our most skilled "field man" : William Kelsey (others may know him as Head Writer, friend, or "the coolest person on campus") out on the scene for the Second involvement fair to get the bottom of things. So please enjoy my condensed version of William's sweat and tears - BW

OUR QUESTION: Have you ever seen a Giraffe?

Editor's Note: Before taking any of this info to heart we believe it is important for our readers to know that this poll only consists of ten (10) volunteers. Whether this a reflection of how uninteresting the Bullsheet table looked or a reflection of the poor weather, we're choosing to not think about it too hard.

We next asked our participants to describe a giraffe in just three (3) words. For ease of reading, we decided to make a Word Cloud, because wow, those things really are so interesting and awesome to look at.

Long? Tall? This is all that people (our people!) think of giraffes? Woah. After receiving these distressing results, William Kelsey made a last valiant effort to ask them to please, please, for the love of God, write us two (2) lines of a poem about giraffes (and let me tell you, a few couldn't work under this intense pressure). Where here, in the 8th issue of Volume 69* of The Bullsheet will be compiled into one unified poem.

*Giraffes are fun, giraffes have buns
 Giraffes love to sing pretty songs
 Majestic as the walk
 Treacherous as they trample
 I saw you at the zoo
 I'm gonna let you out (what that tongue do?)
 I used to like giraffes, but now I don't like giraffes
 Nothing rhymes with giraffe*

*Giraffe, Giraffe, long neck
 How I wish I had a long neck
 I saw a giraffe at the park, I thought it was about to bark
 It looked at me and things started to get dark, so I decided to make myself scarce
 Small and it was tall
 Giraffe (very tall) tiny Charlotte (small)
 Approaches the watering hole
 Looks back and forth no danger.*

*Yes, we're genuinely on our 69th Volume. Good thing it's not the year of the Dog, ammirright!
