CAMPUS BLIND ITEMS

The Bullsheet may be a forum for news, “humor,” and community dialogue, but it is also the most reputable and accurate source of gossip on campus!

Disclaimer: Information may contain errors or inaccuracies.

Blind Item #1: Admin Arrested

This well-known administration member was found facedown in the D-Chi gravity couch and had to be escorted away by campus security--not without a fight, though. They had to be subsequently brought into questioning by Granville police after punching their way through campus security’s grasp, leaving two officers bruised and one with a broken nose. Because of their status and power on campus, however, they will not be facing charges.

Blind Item #2: CA (Candle Affairs)

Former junior turned CA was just found to have not one, not two, but seventeen candles in their room! After a close encounter with the fire department, she was forced to give up them all, but not before she divided her favorite into small wax balls of which she hid in air ducts around campus. Rumor has it, once she gets her lighter privileges back, she will reunite them for one final ritual burning.

Blind Item #3: Cricket Concern

A freshman has been hoarding hundreds, if not thousands, of invasive crickets in their dorm room. Neighbors assumed the overwhelming chirps heard at night were a sound he needed to fall asleep to, but after coming up to complain about the volume, one unnamed Shorney resident was horrified to open the door to a wave of crickets spilling out. No actions have been taken as of yet as this is not technically against the rules, but a DCGA hearing will be carried out soon to decide their fate.

Blind Item #4: Spice Bowl Surprise!

A Slayter worker’s report reveals Bao Bun Bowls are making a come back next week. Fingers crossed on this one.
