WHAT'S UP WITH DCGA?

Happy end of week two! My name is Daniel and I believe the students of this campus need a better window into the bizarre world of DCGA. After all, they are making many decisions that sometimes (maybe?) affect campus life. It's been a while since the Bullsheet had a DCGA political correspondent so who better to fill that post than its former washed-up President! Consider this my formal application for the role. We started our first senate meeting of the year in classic DCGA style: 22 minutes late. There was a good reason though: the club sports budget appeal (fund DUPuck!!). DCGA (in its ever improving splendor) now requires everyone to swipe into the meeting (yay data collecting! Yay big brother!). I wonder if campo will charge me $10 to get in on days that I forget my swipe? President Pan kicked off the meeting with an enthusiastic "How's everyone doing?!" and was answered with crickets. I would have responded but I was still going to town on my slayer southwest chicken wrap. All DCGA meetings start with exec reports so I'll share the important ones. President Pan is hosting "Fireside Chats" soon and his shirt having three buttons undone is really tempting me to go ;). AJ Hartwick and Faith Boirard are sharing the VP position which I don't think is constitutional (???) but we love them so we don't really care. They are working on establishing a parking appeals board. I would've loved that last semester when I got 5 tickets and lost my parking privileges. Campo gets pissed when you park in front of fire hydrants overnight (a little dramatic but to each their own i guess?). AJ and Faith are also putting together a task force to create a new student space in the Huff basement (not sure if that project is public yet. Oops!). Policy Chair Murphy is establishing a DCGA mentorship program to connect new Senators with experienced ones. I can't wait to pass on my utopian anarchist ideals to the next generation. Jakob enthusiastically plugged DUVotes in the middle of reports which is out of line but boy do we love him for it. I submitted a request to the speaker if I could give a report on my recent Fortnite performance stats. Sadly it was rejected. I hate this place. I'd rather be in Greasy Grove. The main business item of the meeting was an update from the Conduct Office on the new Student Code of Conduct as a part of their Know Your Code campaign. How can I possibly be expected to know the Student Code of Conduct when I can barely remember my Slayer box code or D#? Honestly, we wouldn't need a code of conduct if Denison just has a purge weekend once a semester where students could tear out and knock down as many water fountains and exit signs as they wanted. The conduct appeals board is expanding. AJ, Faith, and Maddy are on it so that's who you can bribe to get out of your underage drinking charge. Liam also called me out in the middle of the Senate as a good example of communicating when you are going to be late. As much as I love receiving praise, I hate getting exposed like that. Overall, the room was too cold but it was nostalgic to be back 7/10. Would go again. Quote of the night: "I don't like getting wet involuntarily" – Liam.

FRESHMAN DISORIENTATION

Evelyn Palmer exclusively uses LinkedIn as their only form of social media. Gabriela Palmowska is deathly allergic to the silica packets they put in seaweed packages. Going for a third. Jigisha Pawa dreams of one day owning the Rhode Island minor league baseball team the PawSox. Anthony Payiavlas will not be attending the Grammys this year and just wanted to let you know. Philip Pearce-Pearson pushes PPP. William Peck eats like a bird.

THERE IS AN IMBALANCE TO THE FORCE!

I can feel it, deep within my bones, something is afoot in the state of England. The crows have gone silent, the river runs red, a screaming comes across the sky. It has come before but there is nothing to compare it to now. The Eye glows darkly and forces gather in Gorgoroth, deep beneath the earth things that have been sleeping begin to move. Upon the plains of Maldon forces gather, shaking their spears, the very earth of Badon heaves and groans. Cracks appear in the White Tower, upon the White Hill, where once the brawn and hoary head of Bran, foremost of the Three Great Concealments of the Island of Britain, laid itself to rest. Londonium shakes itself to the core as it had not done since the Medway burned.

Off the coast of Pevensey a lonely washer woman sees a fleet of ships 3,000 strong. In the north the conqueror of Jerusalem, commander of the the Emperor's Varangians already stands, locked in battle with Godwin's last son-- the second to last standing at his side.

Charles the Third stands at Culloden. Charles the Third ascends after his mother's death at Balmoral. An English king crowned with the name of a Scottish King in Scotland. The Queen is dead, long live whatever the hell comes next.
