THE DATING SCENE IN GRANVILLE (READ: IT'S NOT IN GRANVILLE)

Let me paint you a picture: your date drives up and waits outside your dorm with their hazards on. They make no move to exit the vehicle let alone open your car door. Instead, they text you "here," to which you reply "coming." Inside their bruised and vague-smelling Honda, Lil Pump blares. The two of you don't speak. From here, the night unfurls like a fairytale.

You can either:

- 1) Drive 26 minutes to Easton. Bibibop.
- 2) Drive 1 hour and 37 minutes to Dayton, home of the Cheez-It.
- 3) Drive 15 minutes to see that one giant basket.
- 4) Drive 35 minutes to the Gates of Hell (real), conveniently located behind a Tim Hortons.
- 5) Drive 12 minutes to a closer Tim Hortons, if you're only in it for the doughnuts.
- 6) Go for a drive.
- 7) Get out of the car. Avoid driving at all. Not even a little bit. (This is impossible.)
- 8) Drive 33 minutes to Downtown Columbus. Three words: Arnold Schwarzenegger statue.

All of these options are sure to stir some very strong feelings in both of you, so you really can't go wrong. Enjoy falling in love! Or a very different emotion.

SPANISH SHENANIGANS

Welcome back to campus everyone!!! I'm sure that you're feeling rested and healthy coming back from your Thanksgiving break. I'm sure that there was a lot to be thankful for: your family, your friends, your health, your food, your education. As my family gave thanks, I made sure to only give thanks to the one thing that I have to be thankful for: The Bullsheet. And for any of you doubters out there, I made sure to bring rock solid evidence of my gratitude for this beloved sheet.

I went to Madrid, Spain over break to visit my older brother who is currently studying abroad. The only thing that I prioritized during the trip was collecting content for my next article— just in case Betsy texted the group chat on Sunday desperate for submissions. When I got that cry for help, I knew the time to prove my thankfulness has arrived. (Editor's Note: Thank you Caroline!!!)

Without further ado, the weird shit from my Spain trip...

(also these may not print clearly, so you might have to use your imagination. It honestly may be much better and weirder.)

SPAIN SHENANIGANS (continued)

The Paris Hilton of flight safety cards. I think this should be required on all flights per federal regulations.

An entire tab on the flight's entertainment dedicated only to movies with Dwayne 'The Rock' Johnson.

Tú en 3D. You can apparently get a 3D model of you with whatever you want. There was no information about where you could get this done. I love it.

The art that the grandchild of my brother's host family made. I hate to reveal this to avid reader of the sheet, Steve Carell '84, but he was not the originator of Gru.

My father, wearing a Taco Dan's shirt in Seville.

This guy, Flo, who apparently is a French celebrity is looking to get married. He advertised on a bus hand sanitizer. Absolutely gutted that the email got ripped off somehow, you guys are just going to have to find another way to marry rich.

And last, but certainly not least, the reason for my trip. Visiting our office abroad. La Plaza de Toros. Our writing staff here fights off their writer's block by fighting actual bulls. Definitely plan on instituting that to our on campus office immediately.
