NEW THINGS ON CAMPUS: Fun For Everyone!

Mick Smith,
Head Writer

Welcome back everyone! Denison is offering new things on campus! How are you going to find out about these new things? I am here to tell you all about the new things Denison is offering!

Therapy Alligators in Hoaglin

Remember when the wellness center had therapy dogs for students? Studies show that alligators actually have a more distressing presence than dogs. The Hoaglin Wellness Center is now offering Therapy Alligators to help students calm down after a stressful day of class. They will give you a large piece of meat so you can watch the peaceful lil guys rip it to shreds. Hoaglin has a wide variety of red meats you can choose from. There will also be a refreshments table with redbull, skittles, and warheads sour candy. Stop by the wellness center to destress after class.

Denison Lottery

Have you also noticed how much tuition is constantly being raised? Denison has an answer and it's not financial aid! Administration has organized a community lottery. For only $200 you can enter yourself in a chance to win a year of free tuition. If you are selected from the lottery, all you have to do is run a five minute mile and get a 1550 on a practice SAT. After this, you will have free tuition for a year! For more information look on WhattoDU.

Soda Water-Fountains

The brilliant minds at DCGA spent half of this semester's budget on delicious water fountains. Every single water fountain on campus is now sponsored by Sierra Mist and Mug Root Beer. If you want water, go fuck yourself because we are only having the delicious taste of shitty Sprite and the best soda ever to be created as hydration on Denison's campus. Soon you will see plenty of maintenance workers adding these flavors to your local fountain.

Sprinkler System

JUST KIDDING! Nothing about this has changed. It could be pouring rain outside and these fucking sprinklers are still gonna be spraying. For the first-year students who don't know, the sprinkler system schedule never changes. I have walked through a rainstorm before with an umbrella and got wet from a sprinkler spraying me. I hope that Denison fixes the sprinklers this year. PLEASE!

My summer break? You want to know how my summer break was? Well let me tell you all about it. For starters my wife and I tried swinging. Now wait a minute, get your mind out of the gutter! We're talking literal swinging. We went to the park! A couple of our couple's therapists suggested we try connecting with our inner children (our inner childs?) to spark the young love we once felt towards one another. Now I had no problem connecting back to my youth but between you and I, my wife had a lot of years between now and being young. If it's not clear, what I'm trying to say is my wife is old. Like really, really old. She's a dinosaur I tell you, and not one of those high tech digitally recreated dinosaurs Chris Pratt hangs with. You know those recently discovered fossils? Old, dusty, dug-up bones the bone doctors put together to uncover some unknown, thousands of years old, prehistoric species. A fossil from some terrifying ancient predator that once ruled the lands. Well I married one!

No, I only jest. What else did the wife and I get up to I hear you wonder? Not much, for some reason we don't spend a lot of time together. Not a problem for me. Instead I spent most of my days down at the local cafe working on the next great American novel. It's about a man who leaves his wife to go write the next great American novel. Well that's what it is going to be about whenever I start writing it. You see I got extremely distracted, but for good reason! After ordering an Americano, I realized there's pun potential with the words "Americano" and "American novel." So for the remaining three months of my summer I was working on the perfect one liner for the event someone asked me what I was doing at the cafe. Unfortunately no one asked me, for some reason not many people talk to me. Probably this blasted wedding ring.

FIZZ LAUNCH

Mick Smith,
Head Writer

WHAT A DAY! Today the new app "Fizz" launched! They were able to scam over 300 students into posting about them for $15 dollars. Who knows if that money will actually reach the venmo of students who just want to get disposable vape or six pack of beer for free. Fizz was also giving out some sick merch while students were walking to class. I saw so many students walk up to get a bucket hat and then walk away after realizing they would have to download the app in order to get the bucket hat. All I've heard about Fizz is that it is a shitty version of Yik Yak. How could Yik Yak get any worse? I hope that Fizz has success on campus or else they wasted over $2,000 just so a couple sophomores can vape a pink lemonade elf bar at the Moonies this weekend.
