“WE ARE SOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO BACK”

Vol. XLIV, No. 72

Movies That Will Be Released This Year & What We Predict They Will Be About

Leah Jackson and
Antonia Baylor,
Movie Critics

Despicable Me 4

What Gru thought was a simple audit by the IRS goes south when the Federal Bureau of Investigation launches a sting operation onto Gru's elaborate network of child slavery. You think Epstein's bad? Just wait. This June join the goofy gang you know and love at the Gru mansion (Little St. James' Island). Gru Gate is a tale of family, friendship, and the disease of power under late stage capitalism. (Stephen Hawking is not a part of this film)

Sonic 3

Jim Carey delivers what The New York Times calls “The performance of a generation” in this block buster hit, receiving six Oscar nominations. This true story, which transcends race, religion, age, and sexual orientation, President (sleepy) Joe Biden calls Sonic 3 “THE message we need to heal the world right now.”

Paddington 3

Previously, we watched with glee as Paddington took on London, so just wait for the shocking twists and turns his next adventure brings as this country bear is ready to head across the pond to The Big Apple! Paddington learns that, though he may look small, it's the size of one's heart that counts. Set in September of 2001.

Dune 2

Another win for virgins. Dune is back and better than ever, offering another three hours of unbearable boredom backed by iconic droning soundscape which is actually one big queef by George Lucas stretched across the length of the film. (Stephen Hawking IS in this film)

Argylle

Dua Lip is SICK of seeing your ugly y2k outfits. You're not in Clueless, you're not Avril Lavigne, stop wearing argylle. In this raw and edgy documentary, Dual Pee proposes a new political system that combines communism and agnosticism and enforces laws based solely on fashion dos and don'ts. Deli Pela plans to be the sole enforcer of law enforcement, anyone who disagrees with her will be shot with a hot pink 600 airweight double-action revolver.

The Garfield Movie: He Gets Bigger

Garfield's touching biography reaches young male audiences across the nation with the message that actually one in three men struggle with impotency in their lifetime. Among the most raw quotes of the film, our lasagna loving pussy says, “This never happens I swear, I've never had a problem with this before. Hold on, just give me a sec. This never happens I promise... Maybe we could just cuddle”

Inside out 2

In the sequel to the heartwarming Pixar movie we all know and love, audiences will get to see Reily experience the joys of self discovery as she navigates puberty. New emotions, horniness, bitterness, and angst lead to the appearance of “klepto island”, “freak island”, ‘fairy cosplaying on tiktok island”, “emo island” and “trying everything at least once because a little heroin never killed anyone island” The new emotions plot to overthrow joy, because why should that bitch get to make all the decisions? Bitterness locks joy in a cage while horniness and angst introduce Reily to sexual fantasies about her lifelong imaginary friend bing bong. Chaos erupts in the inner workings of Riley's brain leading to an extremely moving scene where Riley is prescribed 100mg of zoloft daily.

Ghostbusters: Frozen Empire

Thank God! After the feminists almost ruined this beloved franchise in their crusade of woke anti comedy, beloved man Paul Rudd (male) returns loyal Ghostbusters fans to their preferred cinematic mediocrity in this sequel which attempts to answer the question “just how much money can we squeeze out of the original 1980 hit which wasn't even that good to begin with.”

Joker: Folie à Deux

Listen in disappointment as your male friends call Joaquin's Phoenix a “genius” after this performance, featuring enough scenes of ‘man staring silently into a bathroom mirror then suddenly screaming in rage interrupted by a jump cut’ for this film to be considered in the running for best picture.

Message to Students Returning From Abroad Programs

Mick Smith,
Head Writer

Hello travelers! Welcome back to your home campus of Denison University. I wanted to give you guys a few pieces of advice about returning back to campus. The first piece of advice I have is that you should talk about your time abroad only when you are asked. Nobody is dying to hear about your new found cigarette addiction, the clubbing you did, the random people you had sex with, or how to properly pour a Guinness. But, when people do ask, please tell them these things. I know a few of you have friends that are desperately trying to figure out what you did abroad and you are gate-keeping your fall semester from them. Just tell people what happened when you are asked about it. I don't want to have to deal with another kid talking about their magical experience in Germany as an anecdote in class discussion. None of that has any correlation to the material we are learning in class. I guarantee it. With all of this said, I am very happy y'all are back. Welcome back to cold weather, hard classes, and shitty food!
