HERE'S WHAT YOU MISSED!

---

Christine Trueh,
Cultural Critic

I call this part of the Bullsheet where I update you on a random assortment of news that happened the past week that you may have missed! Don't worry... I got you covered!

Music:

- Kendrick Lamar dissed the hell out of Drake and J. Cole on Metro Boomin and Future's new album "WE DON'T TRUST YOU" (well deserved?? We don't know!!)

Here are the facts:

- J. Cole claims that himself, Kendrick Lamar, and Drake are considered the biggest 3 rappers in the game.
- Kendrick said there are no "Big 3" rappers, it's only him.

So once again, Kendrick Lamar has emerged from the depths of wherever he was, just to shake up the scene, and disappear once again. I respect it.

Sports:

March Madness has started. I don't know shit about basketball, but I know a bracket is involved. Go Kansas!

Hollywood:

Jennifer Lopez continues to lie and talk about this 'block' in the Bronx. WHERE IS THIS BLOCK? We'll never know. Also, her bodega order: Ham and Cheese on a roll, an orange drink (I don't know what that means), and a bag of chips...Cardi B please help her.

Movies:

Beetlejuice Beetlejuice trailer with Michael Keaton dropped. Looks decent, will keep you updated!

The Royals:

Kate Middleton has been found and no, she wasn't in the Bandersnatch! Unfortunately, the Princess released a statement revealing that she is currently undergoing cancer treatment. Wish all the best to her recovery and just to clarify, the BBL rumor is NOT true.

Denison:

Tutti Festival was this last week. I had the opportunity to go to a very interesting orchestra concert. One particular piece consisted of violists blowing into their instruments, wood being chopped live on stage, pennies being dropped in a bucket, and lots and lots of whistles. I love music!!

Poppi drinks have been all the crave at Slayter. Taste like shit to me, but it seems to be a favorite.

On Thursday, the bookstore got new Denison croc jibbitz?????

On Friday, the Bullsheet office has a new couch.

Hoorah 5 Weeks left!

DRAKE'S GHOST WRITERS RESPOND

Christine and Claire,
Drake fans

That's right. We're finally ready to admit that we are ghost writers for Drake. We have writing credits on some of his best songs, "Headlines," "Jumpman," and "Rich Baby Daddy" just to name a few.

We're the visionaries that have brought you bars like "napkin in my lap cause I'm just mobbin' like that" and "bitch I use a walkie-talkie just to get a beverage."

We've prepared some lines for Drake's upcoming response to Kendrick. Because we know he's going to need all the help he can pay for.

"You think you're number 1? You just OK DOT"

"I'm the biggest rapper all around, you shouldn't even speak, and don't even mention the Drake leak."

"I'm better than your top five and you've never been around/ how bout you shut up and sit down (be humble adlib)"

"Wanna talk about a top 3 but you're not even on the list, everyone knows it's just the HAIM sisters, me, and Taylor Swift"

*Editor's Note: So it turns out ghost writing is hard and we tried. We think Drake should probably just not respond. The dog days are indeed over.

The Tale of The Bullsheet's New Loveseat

Claire Anderson,
Proud Parent

On Friday, the Bullsheet family grew. Our love seat family expanded from 1 to 2. For those unfamiliar, this is monumental news. Pretty much everything in the office has lived within the hallowed red and white walls since 2004. We like to cultivate a really maximalist, archaic, cozy vibe, and by that I mean we are hoarders.

For us to give up a dusty, god-knows-how-old armchair in place of a clean, marginally old, pre-owned love seat is news that only comes once a decade.

The new love seat was born on Friday, March 22nd, 2024 at 10:00am in the Burton Morgan basement. It traveled long and far to get to the office, trekking from the basement to the service elevator, to the regular elevator, up, up, up and across the skywalk connecting Burton Morgan and Knapp, into the Knapp elevator, and all the way back down to its new home on the first floor, where a somewhat clean office was waiting for it with open arms. It was a thirty five minute delivery.

Everyone is thrilled to have a new seat in the office, especially Jouch, who will live forever. May it be loved and sat on by staff members for many years to come, and may it's lovely, colorful plaid pattern remain vibrant and in-tact. Cheers to the new Plofa! (plaid sofa)
