"THE THING YOU PICK UP AND LOOK AT SOMETIMES"

Vol. XLIV, No. 136

IT'S SO OVER. MY LAST BULLSHEET (ALMOST)

Claire Anderson,
Future Mail Carrier

It's time. I would be lying if I never thought this day would come. I've actually been anticipating my final 'sheet since pretty much the day I joined the Staff. I live to be melodramatic!

It's only appropriate to me that I use the last of my unbridled power as an editor to fire up the 02.14.24 template on InDesign 2019 and retire where I started: "Community Advisor Claire Anderson's Credible Advice (CA CA CA)," AKA, My very first Bullsheel, originally published September 1st, 2021.

It was the first week of classes, and I was fresh off of CA training, ready to espouse my knowledge upon the first years. A lot has changed since then. For one, I'm no longer a CA. For two, my advice has aged! I namedrop The Kid Laroi in my first article. I would never, ever do that in the year 2024!

One thing hasn't changed: My advice is credible. Insanely, unimaginably, incomprehensibly credible, no peer review needed. So without further ado, I give you a rewrite of my very first Bullsheel:

FORMER ^ ~~COMMUNITY ADVISOR~~ CLAIRE ANDERSON'S CREDIBLE ADVICE (~~CA CA CA~~)

As a senior on this campus, I've been on the front lines alongside my peers, navigating all that Denison has had to offer these last four years. We've survived Covid, blue whistling, "wellness days," four tornado warnings, five million winner, winner, chicken tender dinners, eight midterms, and seven finals. It's safe to say we run this place. Well listen up, because we haven't graduated just yet. If we want to walk across the Mitchell Center stage on May 11th we gotta abide by some senior week social expectations...

Senior week is for free alcohol. Blackout on the drink tickets you get for donating $1 to the class gift. Do it!!!

Burn Every Bridge. It's hard to accept life after living in proximity to all of your best friends. Make it easier for yourself and Sever. Those. Close. Bonds. ASAP.

Do not pack up until 5pm the day of graduation. People try to guess what Heaven is like, but I already know. Heaven is packing up a year's worth of belongings with your entire family in 75 degree heat while coming down from a three day (minimum) bender on a collective 3 hours of sleep, and saying goodbye to all of your friends from the past four years. Trust me, You're gonna want absolutely nothing tidied up.

Wear your cap and gown every day from now until graduation. Don't let anyone forget for even a second that you're graduating. You deserve to wallow in your pride.

Turn up at the Moonies!!!! You guyssss, wouldn't it be so funny if we finally used them after four years? Moonies Party! Right? Right, you guys... Moonies Party? Rightttt? Haha. Moonies!

Push Pan. Now and forever.

I think that's all I got! Try these for yourselves and watch your life transform in dramatic and irreparable ways. We're gonna live forever!

In a recent campaign visit to Pennsylvania, 46th President Joseph Biden went to Sheetz. To anyone this is an innocuous action. Just a Mid-Atlantic man enjoying one of the finer Midwestern fairs. People from the outside looking in, might only wonder if he tried the new Pizza Flatz. However, for those looking ahead to November will see the political savvy that comes with going to the Altoona institution. Currently Sheetz operates in states such as North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and plans to open up in the Detroit area of Michigan. All of these states will be key states to watch in November. As battle grounds for electoral college votes, residents can only expect to see more and more explicit and implicit targeted campaigning. Considering Denison’s geographical pull, I took the opportunity to ask students from those states to see the impact of Biden’s political move.

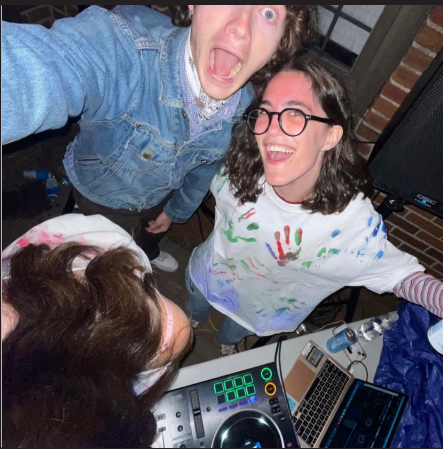

Kendall House ‘24 Charlotte, NC - “Wow. Really? Sheetz? Okay. I mean I’d prefer Bojangles, but I guess you have to settle for something in Pittsburgh. What do I think about the election? I mean it really depends on the order. If he ordered a quesadilla, he lost my respect. The only fast food quesadilla acceptable is from Cookout ”

Bryan Grant ‘25 Dayton, OH - “I’m a chicken fingers kind of guy so if he got those sure I’ll vote for him, but if not I am sticking to Killer Kennedy [Robert F. Kennedy Jr.]”

Aaron Hadley ‘24 Bryn Mawr, PA - “What the fuck is Sheetz? Like a bedding store? Why would Biden be buying bed sheets in Pittsburgh? I’m confused. You think Biden shopping for bedding is going to impact me voting?”

Emery Riley ‘27 Fairfax, VA - “Oh is this like ‘could I see myself having a beer with blank?’ Hmmmmmm I would have to think. Well, I don’t think it detracts from his legitimate progressive politics. It definitely strengthens his liberal populist approach as President and shows himself more connected to the average American voter. It’s interesting he decided to go now on the heels of the larger conversation considering Israel-Hamas. I think it meets Americans where they are and realistically connects his campaign efforts to his political action items. That being said, I am still voting for Trump. The taxes buddy...”

Taylor Cohen ‘26 Grosse Point, MI - “No shit? They’re opening in Michigan? Oh Biden? I was never voting for him. I’m gonna write in Gretchen Whitmer. Bigggggggggg Gretchhhhhhhhhh-hhhh 2024”
