

Edited last night by:

Christine Trueh

Delivered this morning by:

Hayley Shay

September 23rd, 2025

GRANVILLE'S "MOST TICKETED (pt. 2)" PUBLICATION

Vol. XLV, No. 18

HAYLEY'S COVERAGE OF THE PARKING TOWN HALL (PART 2)

*Hayley Shay,
still going*

As I sat waxing ravenous my focus dwindled, and so did the quality of my notes. I resigned myself to recording just the jist of what was being said. Keep in mind some of my memory was hazy so it's possible I'm misrepresenting an interaction, but I am also a quality journalist so probably not.

Here's the rapid fire transcript:

Student 1: What about shuttles as a solution to reducing car congestion?

I'll get back to you on that. We need more market research.

Student 2: There's way too much reckless driving. I got hit almost three times just on Sunday while trying to find a parking spot.

First I've heard of this reckless driving. But we will look into it. Stand down, soldier.

Student 3: I echo [student 2]'s points. As seniors our meal plans are designed so we can go grocery shopping, so having

Thank you for that. It must be frustrating.

Student 4: I think we should reserve half of Silverstein for seniors. Also, Kent [University] has a tiered parking system where they sell parking like selling housing (i.e. seniors get first dibs, then juniors, etc.)

Anything is possible.

Student 5: Why can't we use the parking next to Gilpatrick and the Spiritual life center?

We need to reserve those spots for faculty and staff.

Student 6: I appreciate you David Rose. But I have suggestions. I know there are conversations about removing the Homestead. Can we use that potential space to create parking?

That would bring up zoning concerns. The city's planning commission would have to vote to turn that location into a parking space.

Student 7: I keep seeing people blocking parking spaces near King. Also, at the Shorney parking lot I've seen people buy cones and put campus safety stickers and put them in parking spaces to reserve them.

Necessity is the mother of all invention, evidently. We will watch out for the cones.

Katie: Why can't we just go back to the way it was?

We could. We had a large compliance issue last year, though.

Katie: What about a student report system? Like, a way for students to report other students' cars to campus safety when they're violating parking rules.

I pay eleven people salaries to do that, though. Also, what, you want a campus full of narcs? What's wrong with you?

And that's all I was able to get down until I blacked out from being nearly starved to death.

BULLSHEET CULTURAL LITERACY TEST

Hayley Shay,
cultural expert

In the mid-nineties, Vogue editors William Norwich and Charles Gandee composed a list of 178 notable people, places, institutions, and other cultural ephemera. Its purpose? To be given as an impromptu oral test wherein all applicants to the magazine would have to identify each listed item on the spot. The list provides insight into the worth of shared ideas, shared values, and level of discernment at an institution of such high cultural cachet.

Despite matching in journalistic esteem, the Bullsheet has yet to adopt the Vogue approach of testing our applicants' cultural literacy. But if we did have such a test, our list might look something like this:

Charli XCX	Chipotle Hack	DJ Khaled Snapchat where he's lost at sea
Labubu	Jamie Lee Curtis	Charlie Day
Bob (from Monsters vs. Aliens)	Air Bud (franchise)	Dress to Impress
L. Ron Hubbard	Vince McMahon	The Coldplay Concert
Brazilian Phonk	Jennifer Coolidge	PinkPantheress
Abby Lee Miller	T Dan's	Conan O'Brien
Zeus Network	Family Guy	The Onion
RuPaul	Ringo Starr	Big's going to Paris
Five Nights At Freddy's	Atouk (Ringo Starr's role in Caveman (1981))	Miss Keisha
Onika Burgers	BigXthaPlug	Tokoyo Toni
Kathie Lee & Hoda	r/kitchencels	GAP Katseye commercial
Hyperpigmentation	Joseline's Cabaret	The Savannah Bananas
Angela "Big Ang" Raiola	Dan Hentschel	Real Housewives
AJ & Big Justice	Julia Louis Dreyfus	Jess Burgers the Beef
Joan Rivers	Severance	Randy Marsh
"And I was supposed to be in the video"	Gargamel (from The Smurfs)	Trisha Paytas
Stephen A. Smith	"Baby there's no plane"	I Think You Should Leave
Cosmo "The Queen of Melrose"	Hacks (TV show)	The Creed Edit
Love Island USA	Adam Friedland	Slutty Little Glasses
Addison Rae	Pitch Perfect 3	Gwenyth Paltrow
"Everybody say sausage keep it going"		Adam Friedland

OH NO! WE VE BEEN HACKED!

Denison ITS

Staff "Yurp or Nurp?" Box

Carter "Yurp" Seipel, Managing Editor

Christine "Yurp" Trueh, Senior Editor

Leah "Nurp" Jackson, Senior Editor

Lindsey "Nurp" George, Sophomore Editor

Lucy "Yurp" Dale, Head Writer

Arianna "Nurp" Griffiths, Senior Writer

Elliot "Yurp" Harpham, Senior Writer

Eleanor "Yurp" Mason, Junior Writer

William "Nurp" Eddleman, Sophomore

Lucy "Nurp" Hollingsworth-Hays, Sophomore Writer

Hayley "Yurp" Shay, Sophomore Writer

