A LOVE LETTER TO THE BULLSHEET

*Anonymous Submission

It was just Halloween. Are we really talking about Christmas already? Some people might be mad that as a society we've skipped right over Thanksgiving to Christmas. And while I'm a big fan of the food, let's not forget about its genocidal history. Since it's the holiday season, and everyone is talking about the holidays I thought I'd anonymously put in my ten cents, and you probably don't want them. I wish it was Valentine's Day! There, I said it. You may be saying "whoa whoa whoa that's a long ways a way what about New Year's? New Year's Eve? What about Kwanza?" All the single people are probably mad right now as they don't want to be reminded of their loneliness. Well, I'll tell you why I wish it was Valentine's Day, and it's not because I'm in a wonderful relationship. I'm single too, but I do have love in my life. That love is for The Bullsheet. I just couldn't keep my love in anymore. I had to express it somehow. That's why I wish it was Valentine's Day so I could show it. If it were Valentine's Day, I could buy the sheet, a cheesy card, a big ol' stuffed bull, and a box of chocolates because everyone knows love is measured in the material items you can buy. But, sadly it's not Valentine's Day so the only way I can express my love is through a stupid love letter.

Dear Bullsheet,

You make every day a good day when you are delivered. All the people that write for you are so funny, and talented. They put so much effort into making you and it feels special to read their words. When I get an email from [admin], I know I'll laugh and smile, because I get to read the Bullsheet each morning when it is sent to me in my inbox. I had so much fun when I went to The Bullsheet website, scrolled down, typed in my email, and hit the subscribe button, because I knew I would be receiving the finest literature every weekday. I like seeing all the images in color, you just look so stunning. You're the most beautiful publication I've ever laid my eyes on. Even though I get to see you in my inbox and read you each morning, I love to pick you up at lunch too. I grab a physical copy in the dining hall because sometimes I just like to read your words again. I missed them, I'd forgotten what I found funny. I wanted to be reminded, to laugh with you again. Thank you for being there for me no matter what. Rain or shine you always deliver. You support me through good times and bad. I love you with every fiber of my being. You are my everything Bullsheet.

Forever yours,

Anonymous <3

PSA FROM THE PLANET WATCHERS

*Christine and Meredith,
PlanetWatchers*

HEY! As you should all know, Denison doesn't recycle plastic, so make sure you are recycling properly! Stop throwing away shit in the wrong bins! You all know how to read (hopefully), there are labels on the cans to help you out. If you don't, this man will appear in your bedroom! Or worse, you'll get publicly shamed...

THE SHAME SHEET

Christine and Meredith,
GrubHub vigilantes

Alas! I've spent the past week picking up discarded GrubHub receipts and I have decided to compile a list of people that need to be shamed! This time we decided to redact your name, but next time, we won't so nice!

GRUBHUB
