I TOLD YOU SO

Carter Seipel, told us

Let us all flash back to Fall 2025. On September 8th, 2025, I made fun of the dystopian partnership between my local-loving liberal arts college and the corporation specializing in food delivery known as "GrubHub™." Well, it's with immense pleasure that I get to announce: I. TOLD. YOU. SO.

On Monday, April 13th, 2026, around 1:30pm (the lunch rush!), GrubHub had a silly little nationwide outage. Campus was launched into the dark ages. No Slayter and no Common Grounds. Granville had a spike in cannibalism rates for the first time in 9 years. But worst of all, I had to go without my second cup of coffee! Have you ever had caffeine withdrawal in the middle of a wood workshop? Well, I have! I'm now down one thumb and have a lasting splitting headache. Thanks, GrubHub™! And thank you Denison for taking people out of the food ordering process; it really makes Denison feel like a home on a hill. Minus the resulting spike in cannibalism.

As you may have seen, recently, the first Buc-ee's in Ohio opened. The location is right outside of Dayton. I am proud to announce that they have decided to open another location right here in Granville. I was able to have an exclusive interview with our president, Adam Weinberg, who said, "Buc-ee's has got a lot of traction recently, I think it would be a great pull factor to draw more students to our amazing college." He then explained to me why he was moving forward with the shutdown of the homestead. Weinburg had already sold the land to the Texas-based company, who were a little confused initially, thinking they were opening a location in Denison, Texas. He then listed how a Buc-cee's would be better for campus culture than a small sustainable living community, "20 gas pumps, Buc-cee's would take big red bucks, bathroom attendants get paid $20 an hour- I've seen how much people pay to go here. They need the money. And on the note of bathrooms- clean bathrooms, brisket, pulled pork, barbeque chicken, beaver nuts." We were in his office for the interview, and glancing around the room a saw quite a bit of paraphernalia from a familiar beaver; he was even in a Buc-ees hat, drinking from an absurdly large Buc-ces Stanley like cup, sipping with an attitude from the straw. He told me he wanted to make it very clear that the sole reason for shutting down the homestead was to open a Buc-ee's. The thing that was unclear to me was whether Adam Weinberg was just a really big fan of the franchise or if they were giving him a bunch of free stuff and paying him a shit ton of money.
