

THE BULLSHEET

bullsheet@denison.edu | @dubullsheet | denisonbullsheet.com

The Bullsheet, a forum for news, humor, and community dialogue, is funded by DCGA, recycles, and is printed each day that classes are in session. Submissions must be sent before our editors shamble into the office for next day publication via email to: bullsheet@denison.edu. Submissions herein solely reflect the opinions of the authors.

Edited last night by:

Carter Seipel

Delivered this morning by:

Lilly Andrews

April 6th, 2026

GRANVILLE'S "CAT-FREE" PUBLICATION

Vol. XLV, No. 119

WHAT YOUR FAVORITE EASTER CANDY SAYS ABOUT YOU

Carter Seipel,
Candy Connoisseur
Since 2022

Now that HE HAS RISEN, I've been thinking a lot about my own mortality. Have I lived a good life? Have I contributed enough good in this bleak world? And "blah blah blah," and "boo hoo," you get the rest. Well, eons ago I did do one good deed. I wrote an article called "What Your Favorite Candy Says About You." This article helped so many people categorize their friends and trap them in neat little boxes. Needless to say, it was extremely helpful. So let's run it back! What Your Favorite Candy Says About You EASTER EDITION:

Egg-shaped Reese's, KitKats, or Junior Mints - You cling to tradition and crave routine. You are not adventurous, and you never take risks, but you know what? That's okay. Sometimes clinging to familiar comforts is all one can do in this scary world filled with human-sized bunnies.

Chocolate Bunny - You're more concerned with looks than what's on the inside. Seriously, has anyone had a chocolate bunny with good insides? Either it's hollow, leaving you with less candy and a million tiny shards of chocolate. Or the bunny is solid chocolate all the way through, leaving you with a chipped tooth and a large slab of chocolate that's hard to store and covered in your own saliva.

Jelly Beans - Results may vary on your favorite color, brand, and flavor, but this list is not about nuances. We are here to generalize. If your favorite candy is jelly beans, you are a well-adjusted adult with the right amount of respect for tradition. You like to cut loose on (Easter) weekends and have one too many jelly beans, but you know when to cut back and practice self-restraint. How else could you maintain a bowl full of jelly beans on your desk?

Peeps - Some people may shame you for this one. Big marshmallow has made powerful enemies and garnered haters all across the globe. But The Bullsheet is proudly pro-marshmallows! If peeps are your favorite Easter candy, then you are a cool free thinker with a sweet tooth and an even sweeter eye for aesthetics! I mean look at those little yellow and blue critters! How could you hate on that? You can't! Peeps people are the best most fun loving people around!

Flavored Peeps - What are you, five?

Cadbury Creme Egg - Does your sweet tooth know no bounds? Is there a limit to your hedonic pursuits, or do you plan on living in excess forever? Because that, my friend, is the definition of a Cream Filled Cadbury Egg; EGG-cessive! They taste good, but I can only have about one of these things a month. Two in the same week?! Forget about it! If you're enjoying these every day of Lent you are no doubt living on the dangerous edge of excess and burnout. Get some help. It's never too late to reach out.

Egg-shaped Gum - You know what? You have whimsy. You really do. You bring a whimsical energy to the function that few others can match. Too bad you don't have any teeth left. Every egg-shaped bubble gum I've bitten into has been rock solid and lost all of its flavor in the matter of minutes. It's an objectively bad experience, but if you can enjoy it, more power to you!

Not on the list - To be honest, there's not a lot of Easter candy out there. I'll be shocked if I actually missed something, but if you have a favorite Easter candy that's not on this list, that simply means you are some sort of subversive genius. All your friends love it when you play devil's advocate, and it's actually cool when you say, "Um, actually..."

DENISON UNIVERSITY PLEASE FILL OUT OUR SURVEY

Art Drawn By Aiyana Harrison

15 THINGS TO DO AFTER RISING FROM THE DEAD

By Carter, Elliot, Lucy 2H, Aiyana, and Lily R.

1. Wear pastel colors, it is Easter Sunday afterall
2. Don't push the boulder back over your tomb.
You've been through enough already
3. IGA run
4. Brunch with the disciples
5. Tell all the non-believers "I told you so"
6. Read the Bullsheet (they do print daily afterall, even on the third day)
7. Add Lily on LinkedIn
8. Wear halo as a necklace
9. Toy around with this new AI thing
10. Write an angry letter to the sacrilegious publication known as "The Bullsheet"
11. Egg and spoon race
12. Pledge to a frat
13. Get some stitches for your hands
14. Buy a pair of crocs. Sandals are so last season
15. Leave to go hug your dad

THE BULLSHEET'S ANNUAL E-AI-STER HUNT

Elliot Harpham,
Head of Marketing

Staff "Angry Birds" Box

Carter "Mighty Eagle" Seipel, Managing Editor
 Christine "Chuck" Trueh, Head Writer
 Leah "Bomb" Jackson, Senior Editor
 Lindsey "Boomerang one" George, Sophomore Editor
 William "Big Red" Eddleman, Sophomore Editor

Lucy "Red" Dale, Foreign Correspondant
 Elliot "Ice" Harpham, Senior Writer
 Eleanor "Matilda" Mason, Foreign Correspondant
 Lucy "Stella" Hollingsworth-Hays, Sophomore Writer
 Anna "Blue 1" Crum, Sophomore Writer
 Lilly "Blue 2" Andrews, Freshman Writer
 Lily "Blue 3" Reaser, Freshman Writer
 Aiyana "That Orange One" Harrison, Freshman Writer
 Meredith "Star Wars Spin Off" Havre, Freshman Writer

